

Department of the Attorney General

After an initial upgrade of the State Administrative Tribunal building (SAT), Hewshott were engaged to deliver the next stage which included the improved useability and reliability of the AV automation in the courtroom environment and bring technology up to date.

The existing court AV systems were based on legacy designs developed over many years. The move to a new building was an opportunity to revisit the core fundamentals of the technical design and simplify the complex.

Hewshott delivered a stress-free experience which was evident in a flexible and multi-purpose AV system including a centrally managed dedicated AV control room, a shift from mechanical and physical to virtual and electronic, and future support aligned to current IT support models.

AV solutions and services are an example of increased up-take of technology in almost every area of business, and well executed decisions create phenomenal experiences.

These systems have now been replicated across the entire system in WA.
