

Fairmont St Lucia at Sunset Bay

Following a project in Singapore, Fairmont Hotels and Resorts extended the relationship with Hewshott for their Caribbean project.

This development is located in the area of Choiseul on St. Lucia's southwestern coast and will become the second Fairmont of the Caribbean, joining the Fairmont Royal Pavilion in Barbados.

Bringing together the complex technology requirements with AV and IT under one engagement, our independent consultants are working to use the Fairmont standards as a guide in defining the overall scope and giving the clarity to make overall project decisions with complete confidence.

Utilising a combination of in-person meetings and video conference calls, this was another classic example of Hewshott's ability to achieve the vision of our clients and conceptualise a tailor made solution from our strategically located offices around the globe.

The design approach and the way that AV and IT work is unique; they work together, collaboratively and to service the same goal – the user. The overlap between AV and IT has never been higher and it is vital that the AV systems are designed to be intuitive, easy to use and fit for purpose.

It is this element that Hewshott excels in – how people engage with technology has been a key deliverable for us and we make technology work for us, not the other way around.

