Unilever

In a world where technology can deliver solutions that are limited by imagination, Unilever turned to Hewshott to devise, design and create the most innovative, ecological and user friendly facility that Unilever occupy worldwide.

To meet Unilever's specific needs, conventional thinking was thrown away and Hewshott's consultants relished the opportunity to develop a fresh approach to the corporate meeting environment.

In addition to standard meeting rooms, Unilever required some creative input into their kitchens, demonstration areas and dynamic reception as well as various hair and cosmetic salons that were built into their office.

Hewshott developed a unique space, sometimes venturing into the leading edge technology of AV and acoustic design, but the delivery had a major focus on the environmental sustainability of the workplace.

Hewshott's consultants drew on their experience of highend domestic design work and developed a solution that is intuitive but meets the varying complexities of Unilever's requirements.

Hewshott was given an award for our work in achieving Platinum Green status for this project, the first of its kind in Singapore.
